If a result in a tie, we will take the total of points given up. The team with the least amount of points given up will advance ahead of the other team.

If the points given up result in a tie, we will go with the total amount of points scored in the combined games. The team with the highest total points will advance ahead of the other team.

Lastly; if both given up points and total points scored result in a tie, we will flip a coin.
